

The UK Cinema Market Update

An early evening LPF seminar to be held at:

David Kerr Associates, 32 Welbeck St, London W1G 8EU
4th November 2008, 6.15pm - 8.30pm

HOST: David Kerr Associates

CONTENT:

A comprehensive overview of the UK cinema market by one of the industry's leading external consultants and an insight into the performance of and challenges faced by the country's largest independent operator

SPEAKERS:

Lyn Goleby is Managing Director of City Screen Cinemas, the company she founded in 1989 when she and a partner, Tony Jones, took over the Phoenix Cinema in Oxford. The first London cinema was at Clapham in 1992 and the Group now has 18 cinemas, most branded as Picture Houses together with a "white label" business that programmes or provides film for most of the independent cinemas in London. The Company prides itself in being the antithesis of the multiplex, based in architecturally interesting buildings, staffed by film enthusiasts, and playing diverse and challenging films together with a strong programme of "alternative" non-film content.

Neil Richmond is one of the industry's leading consultants and advisors in the cinema sector. He has specialised in leisure for over 20 years and was the head of the Licensed & Leisure team at Colliers CRE for nine. He has represented many of the industry's leading operators and recently started his own leisure property consultancy practice.
